The proposed theme of the conference for 2020 is “From Reclaiming to Restoring and Rewilding”.

It aims to stimulate discussions about the evolution of management approaches advocated by the three hosting societies. Reclaiming is recognized and practiced by many industries, including mining and petrol extraction. Restoring is recognized most broadly around the world, and has been the main focus of SER. Rewilding allows us to dream. This is the evolution we should encourage. These terms also imply ideas of industry, science, practice, society and imagination. They run from the practical to the creative.
